

Art is about communicating honestly with an audience, broadening the mindsets of everyone involved. In dance, we expand our creativity, telling our story using more than pantomimes. With a diverse ensemble we can reach out to all audiences, reflecting and participating in the human condition. Art is not always comfortable or pretty, but it opens the hearts of the artists and gives audiences the opportunity to open their hearts in turn.