

The leadership qualities that were demonstrated thru our musically artistic piece of Unsteady were commitment, dependability, responsibility, and cooperation. Part of our routine had a lift. I believe that this lift showed all four parts of these qualities. The commitment to the lift was getting it up in the air. The dependability of the lift was that the top girl had to depend on her bases to get into the air. The responsibility of the lift was that the bases were responsible that they had to make sure she didn't fall. The cooperation was that they didn't complain about doing the lift.
